Wishing you a joyous Holiday Season and a happy New Year!

Winter has come early this year bringing snow and freezing temperatures to our community. While some love this change from our regular rain, others are wishing for the warmer weather to return. Whatever you think about the weather, snow forces us to slow down - we simply can't rush around because of the slippery conditions. Hopefully, this change in pace will help us transition into our winter break.

Teaching has become an increasingly complex job and it is very important to use the winter break to relax and recharge. Please use the holidays to spend time with your family and friends...take the opportunity to slow down and set aside your to-do lists. Do things you enjoy - catch up on your reading, watch your favorite shows, enjoy getting outside or work on a hobby. Or try something brand new, like ice skating or snowshoeing. Time away from work is important as it helps us be rested and ready to tackle new challenges when we return.

All the best of the season,
Lee-Anne and Ed
