December 2009

Message from the Presidents of BCTF and CUPE BC

Dear Colleagues and Education Partners:

We are very pleased and proud to introduce to you this joint position paper entitled Roles and Responsibilities of Teachers and Teacher Assistants/Education Assistants.

It is the result of much effort and determination over many years by a number of individuals serving on the joint committee, as well as groups such as the CUPE BC K-12 Committee, the CUPE BC Special Education Task Force, and the BCTF Special Education Association. This paper represents our ability to work together to reach consensus and to move forward to strengthen and enhance public education for all children in British Columbia.

It articulates our basic assumption that the roles of both teachers and teacher assistants are integral to ensuring the success of students with special needs. Further it makes clear that BCTF and CUPE BC have a fundamental role to play in supporting the development of good working relationships at the school level. This paper should assist collegial teams at the local level to continue to develop working relationships and to address conflicts that may arise.

The primary focus of this paper is the roles and responsibilities of those who work most closely with students—teachers and teacher assistants. However, the critical role of the Ministry of Education and school districts in establishing the necessary conditions for students with special needs to have successful, positive, and productive learning experiences in the public schools of British Columbia cannot be over-emphasized.

On behalf of BCTF and CUPE BC, we thank the joint committee members for their commitment and effort. We look forward to dialogue with our members and with all education partners on the important issue of quality public education for students with special needs.

A brief history

In the Spring of 1995, BCTF and CUPE BC convened a small joint committee to address special education issues pertaining to:

- Roles and responsibilities of teachers and teacher assistants;
- Training programs for teacher assistants;
- Projects to assist members in dealing with classroom issues.

The joint committee met for the first time June 5, 1995. Much work was done by this and subsequent joint committees, including plans for a brochure, research projects, and problem-solving approaches to dealing with contentious issues, as well as identification of issues of mutual interest and concern.

However, the statement of roles and responsibilities remained unfinished.

In the fall of 1999, CUPE BC and BCTF again recognized the commonality of issues and concerns relating to special education, and the imperative provided by the provincial review of special education. It was agreed to reconstitute a joint committee, with the aim of reaching agreement on the roles and responsibilities of teachers and teacher assistants for recommendation to government.

In May 2000, BCTF and CUPE BC resumed meetings, and the Roles and Responsibilities of Teachers and Teacher Assistants position paper was endorsed by both union executives in April 2001.

In December 2008, BCTF and CUPE BC began discussions with a view to updating the document. The updated document was endorsed by both union executives in 2009.

Members of the most recent joint committee:

CUPE BC: Susan Blair, June Kaiser, Dee Beattie, Paul Tetrault, John Malcolmson

BCTF: Jim Iker, Jinny Sims, Janice Neden, Leann Buteau, Charlie Naylor, David Halme

Roles and Responsibilities of Teachers and Teacher Assistants / Education Assistants: A BCTF/CUPE joint paper

Context

BCTF and CUPE BC recognize that teachers and teacher assistants play a key role in programs for students with special needs. This paper is intended to assist teachers and teacher assistants in establishing a co-operative, respectful working relationship to ensure the success of students with special needs.

Teacher assistants work under the general direction of a teacher in the school, and under the supervision of the principal/vice-principal. Overall, the relationship between teachers and teacher assistants has seen the development of a more collegial model.

“Teacher” in this document refers to all teachers, including classroom teachers, special education support teachers, learning assistance teachers, and other non-enrolling teachers.

“Teacher Assistant” in this document refers to all teacher assistants and paraprofessionals who are working with teachers to support students with special needs.

This joint statement elaborates the roles and responsibilities of teachers and teacher assistants as defined initially by, and within, the confines of the British Columbia School Act and Regulations, Ministry of Education Special Education Policy, Procedures and Guidelines, and collective agreements of both BCTF, its locals, and CUPE BC with the employing school district/BCPSEA.

Teacher assistants are supervised in regard to the employment relationship (e.g., evaluation reports, discipline) by the principal/vice-principal, not the teacher with whom the teacher assistants work.

1. Boards may employ persons other than teachers to assist teachers in carrying out their responsibilities and duties under this Act and in the Regulations.
2. Persons employed under subsection (1) shall work under the general supervision of a teacher or principal/vice-principal.

Section 18 (www.bced.gov.bc.ca/legislation/schoollaw/revisedstatutescontents.pdf) of the School Act: (04 06 09)

The index to the School Act and related legislation uses the term Teacher Assistant to identify the paraprofessional role. There are, however, numerous other titles in use within the province. CUPE BC is actively seeking changes to Section 18 of the current School Act in order to standardize job titles to Education Assistant and to reflect current employment relationships as reflected in CUPE BC collective agreements.

1. Special Education policy, procedures, and guidelines

The following excerpts are taken from the Ministry of Education Manual of Policies, Procedures, and Guidelines for Special Education Services (Section B.3):

“The teacher responsible for a student with special needs is responsible for designing, supervising, and assessing the educational program for that student.”

“Teachers are expected to design programs for students with special needs. Teachers’ assistants play a key role in many programs for students with special needs, performing functions which range from personal care to assisting the teacher with instructional programs. Under the direction of a teacher they may play a key role in implementing the program.”

“While teacher assistants may assist in the collection of data for the purpose of evaluating student progress, the teachers are responsible for evaluating and reporting on the progress of the student to parents.”

2. Collective agreements

Teachers and teacher assistants are covered by collective agreements between the unions that represent them and the employer. Many of these agreements have provisions that set out some conditions relevant to roles and responsibilities. Collective agreements must be followed and take precedence.

3. The role of the Ministry of Education and school districts in ensuring conditions for success of students with special needs

Teachers and teacher assistants agree that the responsibility of the Ministry of Education and the school district is paramount in ensuring the necessary conditions for students with special needs to succeed in schools. These conditions include but are not limited to:

- 3.1 Provision of adequate resources to maintain an appropriate learning environment.
- 3.2 Availability of a suitable workspace to accommodate the learning activities of those working with students with special needs.
- 3.3 Access to appropriate information regarding the student, the Individual Education Plan (IEP), as well as techniques and strategies necessary to carry out the respective responsibilities of each in relation to students’ programs.
- 3.4 Provision of appropriate in-service on instructional and behavioural techniques and strategies.
- 3.5 Adequate release time for members of the school-based team, and adequate time within the school day for members of the student-specific support team, including the teacher and the teacher assistants, to participate as required in the process of developing, implementing, and monitoring the IEP.

4. Teachers' and teacher assistants' working relationship: General responsibilities

Inherent in the School Act and Special Education Policy, Procedures and Guidelines is the teacher's responsibility for designing, implementing, and evaluating the educational program, and the teacher assistant's role to assist teachers in this responsibility. Both the teacher and the teacher assistant facilitate the inclusion of students with special needs. It is their joint role to encourage the student to become an independent learner and member of the classroom, school, and community.

In order to foster a co-operative, respectful working relationship, teacher assistants need to be aware of those responsibilities that are specific to teachers.

Similarly, teachers need to be aware of job descriptions and the parameters of the responsibilities of teacher assistants.

To provide effective support for students with special needs, teachers and teacher assistants work together and share responsibility to:

- 4.1 Develop a positive, respectful working relationship.
- 4.2 Meet standards of professional and ethical conduct in relation to students, parents, and colleagues.
- 4.3 Advocate for conditions of success for students with special needs.
- 4.4 Advocate for the protection of the legal and human rights of students and their families.
- 4.5 Follow guidelines established by the school/district to protect the safety and well being of children and youth.
- 4.6 Maintain positive, supportive, professional relationships within the education community.

5. Glossary

IEP (Individual Education Plan): a written plan, developed for a student, which describes the program modifications and/or significant adaptations for the student and the services that are to be provided.

Adaptation: retains the learning outcomes of the prescribed curriculum but includes changes such as alternate formats (e.g. Braille, use of technology), instructional strategies (e.g. use of interpreter, visual cues), and assessment procedures (e.g. oral exams, additional time).

Modification: changes to learning outcomes which are substantially different from the prescribed curriculum, and specifically selected to meet the student's special needs.
